

FOR VENUS

Follow-Up Email Playbook

Personal, specific, and easy to say yes to.

Tu evento, tu marca, hecho bien.

Promo & Grow · Updated June 2026

Venus — your follow-ups are polite and your grammar is great. The one thing to fix: right now they read like they could've been sent by any company to anyone. The customer should feel like you wrote it for them, and there should be one obvious next step. Same idea as the calls — personal + specific, and make it easy to reply.

The 5 fixes

1. Name them + one human line. Not "Hi," → "Hi Temo,". Reference their business, event, or past order.
2. Name the product, not "the project." "Your custom 10x10 tent setup," not "your project."
3. Lead with our two superpowers: the free proof + 5-day delivery. These are the reasons to say yes — and they were missing from every email. The free proof removes all risk ("see it with your logo before you pay a cent").
4. One clear next step. Replace "let me know if you have questions" with an easy yes: "Reply YES and I'll send your free proof."
5. Warm, on-brand voice — and Spanish when they prefer it. Cut the filler ("we truly appreciate the opportunity," "we value the opportunity to earn your business"). Sound like a real person who's got them.

The structure (keep it to ~5 short lines)

1. Warm, personal opener (name + a human touch).
2. The quote + what it includes (name the product).
3. Free proof + 5-day delivery.
4. One easy CTA.
5. Signature.

Plug-and-play templates (English + Spanish)

1) First follow-up (Day 1)

Subject: Your Promo & Grow quote — free proof ready when you are

Hi [Name], it's Venus at Promo & Grow (formerly PrintCo Direct). Following up on your [product] — the total's [$amount], shipping included. Here's the easy part: I'll send a free proof first so you can see it with your logo before anything prints, and once you approve, we deliver in 5 business days. Want me to start that proof? Just reply YES. — Venus

ES: Hola [Name], le habla Venus de Promo & Grow (antes PrintCo Direct). Le doy seguimiento a su [producto] — el total es [$amount], con envío incluido. Lo mejor: le mando una prueba gratis para que lo vea con su logo antes de imprimir, y al aprobarla se lo entregamos en 5 días hábiles. ¿Le mando la prueba? Responda SÍ y la empiezo. — Venus

2) Gentle nudge (Day 3 — no reply yet)

Subject: Still happy to send your free proof

Hi [Name], just floating this back up — no pressure at all. Any questions on the [product] quote ([$amount])? Happy to tweak anything. If it's easier, I can send the free proof so you can see it first — want me to? — Venus

ES: Hola [Name], solo le recuerdo esto — sin compromiso. ¿Alguna duda con la cotización de [producto] ([$amount])? Con gusto ajusto lo que necesite. Si prefiere, le mando la prueba gratis para que lo vea primero. ¿Se la mando? — Venus

3) Deadline nudge (Day 7 — event coming up)

Subject: Let's lock your [date] timing

Hi [Name], your [event/date] is getting close — to make sure you're covered, we'd want to start the 5-day production clock soon. Want me to send the free proof today so we stay on schedule? Quick YES and I've got you. — Venus

ES: Hola [Name], ya se acerca su [evento/fecha] — para que llegue a tiempo, conviene empezar pronto la producción de 5 días. ¿Le mando la prueba gratis hoy para no atrasarnos? Un SÍ y queda. — Venus

Before → After (one of your real emails)

Before (the $888 one — generic, no product, no proof, passive close):

"I wanted to follow up and resend the quote... The total for the project is $888.00. We truly appreciate the opportunity... please feel free to reach out. Our team is always happy to help."

After (specific + warm + free proof + one CTA):

"Hi [Name], Venus at Promo & Grow (formerly PrintCo Direct), following up on your 10ft SEG display — $888 all in. I'll send a free proof so you can see it with your logo before we print, then 5 business days to delivery. Happy to adjust anything. Want me to get the proof started?"

See the difference? Shorter, names the product, gives the reasons to say yes, ends with one easy question.

Using AI the right way (you've got Claude/ChatGPT)

The AI is only as good as what you feed it. Give it: the client's name, the exact product, the amount, their event/date, and what they ordered before. Tell it to use this structure and our warm voice — and reject anything that sounds like corporate filler. Paste prior-conversation screenshots so it has full context. The template above is the recipe; the AI just speeds it up.

Pairs with: Closer Workbook §3 (voice) & §4 (follow-up cadence) · First-Call Playbook · Closer Cheat Sheet.